Profile

- Abbie qualified as an occupational therapist (OT) in 2012 and worked with the NHS for 12 years both as a specialist OT and as a rehabilitation assistant.
- Abbie began her OT career in a large foundation trust where her clinical experience included neurological rehabilitation, orthopaedic trauma and community rehabilitation.
- Abbie later moved into a specialist role working in community paediatrics. Her role included home and school assessment, provision of equipment and specialist adaptations. She also worked within a local primary specialist school with children with physical disabilities and autism.
- Abbie has a wealth of experience of working with children with varying difficulties including orthopaedic trauma, developmental difficulties and long term neurological conditions. She has worked in the private industry completing assessments for both adults and children with physical disabilities.

Testimonial

"I feel privileged to get to know and be able to support individuals at a very difficult point in their lives. Being a central driving force for a person's recovery and rehabilitation is incredibly rewarding.

I thoroughly enjoy the challenge and diversity that case management provides."
